Player: Francisco Trincão

Height: 186cm

Weight: 77kg

Position: FW-MF

Age: 24

Team: Sporting CP

Summary

Francisco Trincão is a highly proficient forward-midfielder currently demonstrating exceptional capabilities in goal contribution and playmaking from his positions. His performances indicate a strong benefit to teams looking for an attacker who can consistently break defenses and contribute both goals and assists.

Strengths

- High efficiency in scoring from open play, demonstrated by a high non-penalty goal rate (97th percentile).
- Excellent ball control and creation abilities, supported by his ability to complete passes with a high success rate (83.2%, 97th percentile).
- Strong ability to generate goal-scoring opportunities as seen from his shooting stats and shot-creating actions per 90.

Weaknesses

- Limited defensive contribution, showcased by low percentiles in interceptions and blocks.
- Less effective in the air, with a lower percentile in aerials won which might affect his effectiveness against physical sides.
- Moderate influence in advancing the ball through carries and progressive moves.

Potential

Trincão's current trajectory and skill set suggest high growth potential, especially if he further develops his physicality and defensive gameplay. Continued focus on refining his passing and creative abilities could see him become even more impactful at the highest levels.

Similar players

Trincão's gameplay can be related to players like Steven Bergwijn (Ajax), Rafa Silva (Benfica) and Pedro Gonçalves (Sporting CP). These players share abilities in attacking midfield roles, characterized by keen goal-scoring instincts and creative prowess, functioning as key offensive elements for their respective teams.
